NORTH DEVON NAMED UK'S FIRST WORLD SURFING RESERVE

North Devon has become the 12th location around the globe to be selected as a World Surfing Reserve, the first of its kind in the UK and only the second in Europe. It is also the first ever cold water World Surfing Reserve, with the best waves found to arrive in the winter season. North Devon is well known for being the surfing capital of the South West and is now internationally recognised. The region has an established surfing culture and is home to the Museum of British Surfing as well as Surfing England. The entire North Devon coastline plays host to a range of different surfing schools and tutors offering everything from equipment hire to sessions out on the waves, and this new World Surfing Reserve covers a world-class surf zone that stretches around 30 kilometres of coastline, covering some of the most popular surfing areas in the region. ♦

THE SURPRISE IN CHELSEA

The Surprise pub has re-launched, following a complete refurbishment by interior designer of the moment Isabella Worsley. Dream Escape love its playful interiors, with artworks by Matilda Goad and Kate Boxer. Run by entrepreneurial young landlord Jack Greenall, The Surprise is a country pub in the heart of London, but behind the distinctive green façade with its red-and-white-striped awning, guests will find some of London's best cocktails, exciting wines and now, with new head chef, Chris Heather's expert skills, top quality seasonal dishes. Chris, previously of The Greyhound and JSW, is bringing his passion for local produce and seasonal cooking to The Surprise. His view is not to overcomplicate things but to focus on clever cooking, where the best seasonal produce speaks for itself and each ingredient is there for a reason. ♦
